About the Seminar:

"Every one of us needs to show how much we care for each other and in the process care for ourselves." – Princess Diana

According to the WHO report (2023), approximately 1 in 10 patients are harmed in healthcare, resulting in more than 3 million deaths annually due to unsafe care. Patient harm in healthcare due to safety breaches is pervasive, problematic, and can occur in all settings and at all levels of healthcare provision.

- Discuss key practices and strategies for delivering patient-centered care that prioritizes the holistic needs and preferences of individuals.
- Examine the role of effective communication, teamwork, and collaboration in enhancing patient outcomes and experiences within healthcare settings.
- Highlight innovative approaches and emerging trends in nursing practice, such as the integration of technology, holistic care modalities, and self-care for healthcare professionals.
- Provide participants with practical knowledge and skills to elevate their nursing practice and make a positive impact on patient care delivery.
- Foster networking and collaboration among nursing professionals, educators, researchers, and policymakers to promote excellence in nursing practice and education.
